While FANGORIA RADIO is currently on hiatus, the folks at Sirius Radio have been running some of our best and bloodiest shows, and tonight it continues as we re-run a show where Dee, Tony and Debbie highlight two of last year's best fright features:

• Joshua Zeman and Barbara Brancaccio, the couple behind the real life urban legend documentary CROPSEY discuss hunting down the truth behind the child disappearances that plagued their Staten Island communities as kids.

• Jocelin Donahue, who puts in a wonderful performance as Samantha, the unfortunate babysitter in Ti West's satanic panic flick, HOUSE OF THE DEVIL talks to the gang about working with West and genre veteran Tom Noonan.

• What would a classic Fango Radio show be without hearing from one of our best guests? Revisit Mr. Thomas Jane and his tales from the cutting, bleeding edge.

You can listen to FANGORIA RADIO over the Internet for just $12.95 per month; for information and to sign up for Sirius XM, head here ! Or to sign up for a free seven-day pass to listen to FANGO RADIO and other great Sirius programming, check out their official site . You can also find a ton of great FANGO RADIO highlights on iTunes; these free audio clips are listed in the iTunes Store under the Podcasts tab, so simply search for FANGORIA. It has never been easier to get your horrifying fright fix.