Written by Samuel Zimmerman
Tuesday, 09 October 2012 07:19

The wonderful THE AMERICAN SCREAM is heading to theaters before its Chiller TV premiere. Get a glimpse of the passion, hilarity and serious emotion you're in for in its first trailer.

The second documentary from BEST WORST MOVIE's Michael Stephenson, THE AMERICAN SCREAM follows three families in Massachusetts as they gear up for their annual home haunts during Halloween. The film is really beautiful; it's both incredibly funny and touching and should get horror/Halloween devotees right at the core.

THE AMERICAN SCREAM premieres on Chiller October 28. You can (and should!) catch it on the big screen, however, at the following dates & theaters. If you don't see your city, head over to Tugg and request a screening .

For more, read FANGORIA's review right here .

{youtube}vQMkrdzD3xM{/youtube}

October 13 & 14 - The Cinefamily (Los Angeles, CA) with Director Michael Paul Stephenson in person

October 16 - Roxie Theater (San Francisco, CA)

October 19 - Coolidge Corner Theater (Boston, MA)

October 20 - Nitehawk Cinema (Brooklyn, NY)

November 1 - Alamo Drafthouse Mason Park (Houston, TX)

November 3 - Alamo Drafthouse Winchester (Winchester, VA)

November 6 - Alamo Drafthouse Westlakes (San Antonio, TX)

November 9-14 - Alamo Drafthouse South Lamar (Austin, TX)

November 20 - Alamo Drafthouse Park North (San Antonio, TX)

November 28 - Alamo Drafthouse Stone Oak (San Antonio, TX)