This past week, the INSIDE HORROR gang (Staci L. Wilson, Elric Kane, and FANGORIA's own Rebekah McKendry) discussed their favorite "institutional" horror films, as well as the long-anticipated Aussie film, THE LOVED ONES. Meanwhile, the special guest was the legendary Jeffrey Combs.

Known for his iconic role as Dr Herbert West in Stuart Gordon's RE-ANIMATOR, the actor has recently been receiving (and deserving) copious critical praise for his one-man show reteam with Gordon and RE-ANIMATOR writer Dennis Paoli. In NEVERMORE (currently seeing a monthly resurgence at L.A.'s Steve Allan Theater, now known as Trepany House), Combs masterfully channels Edgar Allan Poe during one of Poe's public speaking engagements and engrosses for 90+ minutes.

This Tuesday, May 15th on INSIDE HORROR, Sid Haig will be hanging out in studio to discuss his lifetime horror career and work with horror bastions like Rob Zombie and exploitation wizard Jack Hill. The gang will also be discussing their favorite monsters and reviewing the new Tim Burton pic, DARK SHADOWS.
